MEETING OF THE COMMON COUNCIL

No Quorum in Board of Aldermen and That Body Meets Tonight

Financial Measures For Work in Recently Annexed Territory Recommitted to Committee

A regular meeting of the City Council was held last night, the first since February 15. Some measures of importance were introduced, as well as considerable miscellaneous business. There was no quorum present in the Board of Aldermen, and that board will meet tonight and act upon papers which were considered by the Common Council.

Common Council

An ordinance to set apart a sum equal to twelve per cent of the assessed value of land in the annexed territory to be used for improvements in the annexed territory reported on favorably by the Finance committee, at a meeting of common council last night was referred back to that committee as was also an ordinance providing for the issuing of $70,000 of registerer and non-registered four per cent bonds to run for a period of twenty two years from May 1, 1916.

Under the provisions of the ordinance to set aside twelve per cent of the value of the annexed property that part of the territory formerly a part of Alexandria county assessed for $150,840 would receive $19,180 and that which was formerly a part of Fairfax county which is assessed for $393,000 would receive $47,160.48. This would make a total assessed value of $552,844.

Councilman Bryan said he would like it passed at once. The reason for asking for the issuing of $70,000 of bonds he said was because the bonds may have to be sold for a little below par.

President Smith declared the ordinance was a very important one, and added that personally, he would like to look over he figures before he voted on the measure.

An adverse report was made by the finance committee on the proposition to accept notes for sewer taps, the same to bear interest at six per cent and mature in twelve months.

Councilman Bryan of the finance committee, said the committee found such a method would be very troublesome and there would be many small notes. He also stated that the question arose as to whether or not the notes given would be considered a lien on the property. The committee's report was adopted.

Councilman Marbury introduced a resolution, which was adopted, providing that the city engineer, city health officer, fire committee of the city council, members of the fire department and other city officials be empowered to furnish to the state corporation commission or the attorneys for either side information regarding the water supply etc., in the controversy slated to be heard in Richmond March 28 in the case of certain citizens against the Alexandria Water Company.

Councilman Brockett opposed it in its present form he said.

President Smith said the purpose of the resolution was for the city council to have the city officials give what information they may have in their possession.

The health department, he declared, during the summer months made or had made frequent analyses of the water, and he added that in the petition it is alleged that the water in summer is not fit for drinking purposes. Mr. Smith said it is merely fair that information should be given in order that full and speedy investigation may be conducted. In conclusion, he said that it seemed to him that not even an advocate of the water company could oppose the measure.

Councilman Brumback desired to know if the resolution provided that the Water Company should have the information and he was assured that it did.

Councilman Brockett said that he did not think the manner in which the investigation was being done would accomplish results.

President Smith desired to know if he could suggest any other way but Mr. Brockett did not.

A petition signed by nine members of the Alexandria Circle of Colonial Dames in America in he state of Virginia requesting council for permission to remove from the market master's office the valuable relic of the city including weights and measures sent from England in 1744 for the use of the county of Fairfax of which Alexandria was then a county seat.

It was explained in the petition that the committee proposes to put these relics in a a barred case which will be placed in a conspicious position in the corridor of the city hall where they can be seen by those passing. They also propose to provide substitutes for these articles should they be considered inaccessible to the market master. The petition was granted.

Corporation Attorney Fisher reported that the state corporation commission was the proper tribunal to bring the question of compelling the Washington-Virginia Railway Company to erect and maintain a ticket office and waiting room at Spring Park Station.

A resolution to this effect was introduced in council by Councilman Clinton Ballenger August 10, 1915, and on September 18, the railway company made an adverse report on the proposition.

The report was received.

Councilman H. R. Burke presented a warrant for $632.84 sent him by the board of supervisors of Fairfax county representing part of expenses in annexation suit and the mayor was authorized to sign paper accompanying warrant.

Through Councilman Marbury the Co-operative Charities asked for $250 to continue their work. It was stated that the $1,500 already given is now exhausted, and that over 1,000 orders were issued and much relief given. The appropriation was made.

Request of Anti-tuberculosis Society, through Miss Rose M. Mac Donald its president, asking for $250 for work of visiting nurse, was referred to the finance committee. In the petition it was set forth that during the past year 1075 visits were made by the nurse.

Other matters disposed of will be found in the official proceedings.

MONEY TO ENFORCE LAW.

Legislature May Have Given Double Sum Asked by Prohibition Leaders.

Richmond, March 15.— Assistant Attorney General Garnett inclines to the belief that the Legislature made an appropriation of $50,000 a year for the enforcement of prohibition.

Discussing the matter he said that the general appropriation bill carried the sum of $25,000 a year and also that the appropriation bill carried the same special appropriation.

He said that he had not seen the appropriation bill as it was amended but on the face of the matter it appeared to him both sums would be available.

This is not the view of Senator Mapp, the patron of the prohibition bill, and who was a member of the Senate Finance Committee, which wrote the item in the general appropriation bill.

When the conference report came to the Senate late Saturday night with the item omitted he raised a protest and said that the ommission of the item would defeat the intent and purpose of the law. He also said that the appropriation was made in the appropriation bill for the purpose of making it clear that the Auditor would be authorized to make the payments as intended in the prohibition bill.

It is plain that there was no intention to make the appropriation $50,000 a year. It was made very clear on Saturday night that the House conferees took the same position as Mr. Garnett, holding that the prohibition bill made the sum a special appropriation. It was to guard against the entire omission of the appropriation that it was inserted in the amended general appropriation measure.

The fact is that the item appears in both measures, and the office of the Attorney General may be called on to construe the law, which will be after it becomes operative.

CENSORSHIP IS OVER MOVEMENTS

Real Advance of Funston's Expedition Believed Under Way

ALL READY FOR START

Carranza's Request For Two Weeks in Which to Capture Villa Seems a Play for Time

Washington, March 15—Behind a perfect censorship that cloaks every movement of Funston's expedition, the real advance into Mexico is believed to be under way today.

Officials admit that the army will have been across the border many hours before the "war correspondents" are allowed to flash the news to the world. It is further stated that official Washington will have no information until the "invasion" is an accomplished fact.

Press dispatches from the border announce that all was ready for the start at daybreak. Troop trains and trainloads of supplies that have been pouring through El Paso for days have stopped, additional proof that Funston has all of the men and supplies, the lack of which delayed the start of the campaign.

Requests from Carranza officials for two weeks' time to capture Villa without United States action and reports that three columns are running him to earth are looked upon as merely a play for time.

There is every indication that the request will not be given serious consideration and this fresh complication is adding fresh fuel to the opposition of Carranza leaders to the expedition.

Alarming reports come in from various points along the border. Rumors of the blowing up of a train carrying United States regulars has received absolutely no confirmation but other disturbances are reported hourly.

El Paso, March 15—Carranza sympathizers have fired on a Southern Pacific train at Blen, Tex., on the border, seventeen miles east of here. Several shots were fired at the coaches by Mexicans, hiding in the underbrush near the station, but no fatalities are reported.

The attitude of Carranzistas generally has grown more and more threatening, following the failure of General Guitierrez to get General Pershing to consent to a postponement of the American expedition.

An ironclad censorship that even refused confirmation or denial of a report that Hachita, N. M. was captured by Carranza troops gave rise to the belief today that the American expedition after Villa was about to move.

General Pershing's orders were to cross into Mexico when he was ready. Americans arriving at Deming, N. M., from Columbus stated that the expedition would begin the bandit hunt early today.

With the report that 3,000 cavalry under Pershing will make up the "flying" column to chase Villa, army men today gave the impression that no infantry will be used in the expedition. It was believed the infantry regiments coming toward Mexico from interior posts will be used to patrol the border.

SIGN OF GERMAN SETBACK

Belgian Frontier Reopened to Let Wounded Through.

Amsterdam, March 15.— On account of the German offensive at Verdun, the Dutch-Belgian frontier had been closed for several weeks. That part of it south of Maastricht has now been reopened and this fact is commented on in Holland as probably indicating that the Germans consider their offensive near an end. The dispatch adds that 81 more hospital trains with wounded Germans from Verdun have passed through Luxemburg.

BACKING UP PORTUGAL.

England Urged Her to Seize The German Ships.

London, March 15.—Speaking on behalf of Premier Asquith, who was absent on account of illness, Sir Edward Grey, secretary for foreign affairs explained in the House of Commons yesterday the entry of Portugal into the war. He confirmed the statement that the British government had urged Portugal to requisition the German ships, and said that Portugal promised eventually to indemnify the owners.

The Secretary argued that the right in an emergency to requisition property of all individuals and convert it to public use was a right inherent in every foreign state and could not be challenged by any foreign power. Portugal, however, was not a neutral state in the narrowest sense of the term. At the outbreak of the war Portugal promised that under no circumstances would she disregard her ancient alliance with Great Britain and she had remained faithful to the obligations of that alliance.

FULL WAR FOOTING

Resolution Passes House Providing for Additional 19,947 Men

In preparation for a lengthy campaign in Mexico, the administration yesterday took steps to place the United States army on a full war footing.

A resolution urged by President Wilson and Secretary of War Baker, adding 19,947 men to the army was put through the House with but one dissenting vote.

The new troops will be used to replace those taken from the border forces to get after Villa and to fill out all mobile troops at interior points to war strength.

Anticipating favorable action by the Senate when the resolution comes up today, the War Department last night sent telegraphic instructions to recruiting officers to proceed vigorously with enlistments.

The House resolution, which was introduced by Chairman Hay, of the Military Committee, after a conference with Secretary Baker, provides for the recruiting of approximately 16,000 infantry, 2,900 cavalry and 1,100 field artillery. This will increase the army strength to 118,000 men, exclusive of the quartermaster and hospital corps.

GERMANS RENEW HEAVY ATTACKS

Redouble Fire From Heavy Artillery and Strike Fiercely

FRENCH MOW COLUMNS

Kaiser's Soldiers Thrown Back by Defenders, Leaving Field Covered With the Slain

London, March 15—German troops have driven a wedge in the French front between Bethincourt and Dead Man Hill, according to Berlin dispatches transmitted through Amsterdam today.

Bethincourt, Berlin asserted, is nearly two-thirds surrounded and a slight German advance will force its evacuation. The French positions on Dead Man Hill, according to the German report, have again been put in peril in the resumption of the Verdun fighting.

The French war office admits that Germans are making heavy attacks on this sector, following an intense bombardment, but claims the repulse of all German attacks except at two points between Bethincourt and Dead Man Hill.

There is every indication that the German assaults on this front mark the beginning of a great battle that may prove the last phase of the great struggle for Verdun.

The crown prince, it is now believed hopes by one brilliant stroke to break the French front northwest of the citadel. This movement, if successful would trap the French army on the east bank of the Meuse and mean the surrender of enormous supplies of artillery and munitions and probably a large number of prisoners.

That French experts are awake to the danger of such a blow is evident from Paris dispatches today.

"It is significant" said one dispatch "that the bombardment which is a necessary prelude to an infantry attack has been confined almost entirely to he west bank of the Meuse northwest of Verdun. French military experts and staff officers conclude that the battle for which the Germans have been preparing will rage with greatest fury between Bethincourt and Goose Hill.

"If the Germans force those French positions, their next point of attack will be the Bourrus forest, two and one-half miles northwest of Verdun and Charney, three miles north of Verdun.

"Were the Germans to break through to Verdun by way of Douaumont and Vaux on the east bank of the Meuse, it would be an empty victory. They would lose 300,000 more men for the sake of an empty bank.

Paris March 15.—Furious fighting has been renewed on both banks of the Meuse, north, west and northeast of Verdun. The Germans, by heavy assaults following the unprecedented bombardment of the last seventy-two hours, broke through the French lines at two points on the front between Bethincourt and Deadman Hill. The gain was made, the War Office midnight report asserts, at the cost of heavy losses to the Kaiser's forces.

Four attacks in all were launched yesterday two on each bank of the Meuse. Early in the morning east of the river the artillery cannonade against the French positions attained its climax. For more than two hours the Germans kept up the mighty effort of their heaviest guns, and then long lines of infantry in close formation surged from the German trenches and assailed the French positions in the wood of Haudremont.

The furious barrier fire of the French and storm of machine-gun bullets and shrapnel mowed down the gray columns of Germans as they swept time and again to the attack.

The Germans, leaving hundreds of dead on the field, were forced to fall back.

This attack failing, the artillery fire west of the Meuse redoubled in fury, according to the midnight War Office report, and in the afternoon a terrific assault was begun on the French front between Bethincourt and Cumieres.

Divisions of the 100,000 new reserves gathered by the Germans were thrown into the battle. Despite the terrible fire poured into their ranks, the advancing legions succeeded in reaching the French positions, and a hand-to-hand battle of the utmost ferocity ensued. On the greater part of the front, the report asserts, the Germans were forced to fall back, their attack broken by the French fire and bayonets.

At two points, however, they succeeded in penetrating the defense and in holding their ground, despite fierce counterattacks immediately launched with strong reserves.

The four attacks of the day are believed in military circles here to herald the final drive on the fortress The Germans must succeed now, or they will never succeed, critics assert, The French express the utmost confidence that the Kaiser will see his legions advance only to be hurled back from the impregnable French positions.

GREECE AND THE ALLIES.

Demands Made by the Entente Cannot be Granted.

Berlin, March 15.—Premier Skouloudis, of Greece, is said by the Overseas News Agency to have informed the entente powers that his government would not accept certain demands made by them and that insistence on them would disturb the relations between Greece and the entente

"It is reported from Athens," says the news agency, "that Premier Skouloudis read before the cabinet a collective note from the entente powers. After a short discussion, the cabinet resolved not to accept the demands made in the note.

"In accordance with this decision, the premier invited the entente ambassadors to meet him and communicated to them the following points decided upon by the government:

"The Greece government is not disposed to transfer to the entente administration of railroads in Northern Greece and Macedonia.

"The government must oppose military occupation by entente troops of the Corinth strait ,and at the same time advises the entente that such attempts would disturb the present relations between Greece and the entente.

Reports have been received here from Athens of fighting on the Greek island of Mytilene between Greek and French soldiers. It is said one French soldier was killed and another wounded severely. French reinforcements were brought up and imprisoned the Greeks.

The commander of the French forces, the report states, has prohibited further mingling of French and Greek soldiers. The Greek government is reported to have protested against the arrest of the soldiers.

GREAT BRITAIN'S REPLY

United States About to Face Another Serious Crisis

Ambassador Page at London it was learned yesterday, has cabled to the State Department sufficient information concerning the forthcoming reply to the American protest on the British seizure of mails to indicate that the United States is soon to face a serious crisis with Great Britain. The answer is understood to be practically a flat rejection of all the American contentions, and is officially reported as being "unsatisfactory."

There are now three acute issues with Great Britain They are:

1. Seizure of American mails on the high seas.

2. Invasion of American ships on the high seas to take off persons either of, or suspected of, being of German origin.

3. The validity of the English blockade, which embraces her extension of the contraband list and her "enemy origin" decree.

The underlying principle of the American protest is that Great Britain not only has violated international law by her acts, but has also violated the plain letter of the Hague convention.

MOORE TO QUIT STATE SERVICE

Confirms Report That He is Considering Business Offer

TO ISSUE STATEMENT

Auditor Has Been in Department Thirty-two Years—Prominent in Tax Administration

Richmond March 15.—State Auditor C. Lee Moore may send his resignation to Governor Stuart within the next three or four weeks. No formal statement concerning his resignation has been issued by the State Auditor, but is is learned upon unquestionable authority that Auditor Moore was thinking of leaving the service of the State and entering other business.

Auditor Moore was asked definitely for a statement. He was asked to confirm or deny the report.

"It is true," said the auditor, "that I am considering entering other business. I would prefer to make no further statement just at this time.

It had been assumed that the increase of $500 a year added to the State Auditor's salary by the Legislature—making it $4,500 a year—had put at rest the dissatisfaction which, it is said, Mr. Moore had felt for sometime. His friends declare, however, that in view of the technical training and ability of the State Auditor the $500 increase is a very slight thing and the apparent unwillingness of many members of the General Assembly to further increase the auditor's salary is said to have been considered as a lack of appreciation of the immense labor and actual accomplishments of the auditor.

If the auditor should resign his successor will be appointed by the Governor to hold office until the Legislature meets again. The new auditor would, therefore, be in office two years. Some are inclined to think that the Second Auditor—Rosewell Page—would be advanced. Others believe that an entirely new man would be appointed.

In addition to Mr. Moore's regular work in connection with his office duties he is a member of the State Advisory Board on Taxation.

Mr. Moore has been State Auditor for four years. He has served in the State Auditor's office for thirty-two years, being first appointed to a clerkship in 1884, His rise from one position to another, advancing in responsibility, was steady, and when he was selected auditor to succeed Stephen R. Donohoe it was generally conceded that the Legislature had chosen the best man possible for the place.

For a number of years Mr. Moore had been chief clerk and first assistant to Auditor Morton Marye. Both Mr. Moore and Mr. Marye came from Alexandria. When Mr. Marye died Governor Mann appointed Stephen R. Donohoe, of Fairfax, to fill the unexpired term. Mr. Donohoe did not stand for re-election and the Democratic caucus of the General Assembly nominated Mr. Moore and he was elected.

With his induction into office Auditor Moore launched a vigorous campaign to force collection of taxes, particularly from those who had been for many years in the habit of evading assessment upon intangibles.

BORLAND'S RIDER KILLED

Three Proposals of Missouri Congressman Turned Down

Three times the House yesterday by decisive and emphatic votes turned down legislative proposals by Representative W. P. Borland, of Missouri, which were designed to increase the hours of the government clerks' workday from seven to eight.

The House registered its feeling on the subject, too, after an exhaustive discussion of the matter on its merits, Chairman Crisp, who presided, having earlier in the day overruled the Mondell point of order against the second Borland "rider."

One record vote was taken. It was on a motion by Mr. Borland, after his other suggestions had been defeated, to recommit the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill with instructions that it be reported back to the House immediately with an amendment fixing an eight-hour workday for approximately 16,000 clerks, whose compensation is provided for in the measure. The motion was lost by an overwhelming vote of 37 to 282-one voting "present" and 34 not voting.

NEW STEAMER SERVICE.

Steamer Majestic Will be Put on Line April First.

The Potomac and Chesapeake Steamboat Company will shortly put in service a new steamer named the Majestic, on the Potomac river.

About the first of the year the river service was cut down by the Maryland, Delaware and Virginia Railway Company, which placed the business interests of Alexandria and Washington at a distinct disadvantage, particularly with points from Leonardtown, Md., to this port and Washington. The Retail Merchants' Association of Washington filed protests with officials of the Maryland, Delaware and Virginia line and finding the protests unavailing, took up the matter with General Manager C. St. John, of the Chesapeake Steamboat Company. The company will maintain an uninterrupted tri-weekly service on the Potomac River beginning about April 1st.

CLAIMS IT HELPED HIS STOMACH TROUBLE

Thousands of people in Alexandria are needlessly suffering from disorders of the blood, stomach, liver and kidneys. Relief is near at hand and within the reach of everyone. Many have found quick deliverance from their suffering by the use of Dreco, the great herbal system tonic, which is composed of a combination of Nature's remedies, roots, herbs, barks, and berries which are essential to health. That is why it regenerates the blood supply, overcomes rheumatism, eliminates catarrh and puts the stomach in condition to digest the food properly. That this is proven it is only necessary to listen to the statements of people who have given Dreco a fair trial. Here is a recent one from Mr. A. U. Chavez, 733 Ninth street northwest, "I have suffered for some time from catarrh of the head and nose, had pains in my back and limbs, could not sleep well at nights, my stomach would fill up with gas, and I felt that I could not keep up with my work. I bought a bottle of Dreco and after taking it I am entirely cured of stomach trouble and feel improved in every way. The catarrh is much better, rheumatic pains all gone, gas does not form in my stomach anymore, headaches stopped and my general condition is improved. I am glad to recommend Dreco for it is a splendid medicine." Dreco acts like magic in stomach trouble, gas, fermentation, heavy distressed feeling after eating and on retiring. It destroys the poison in the blood, corrects disordered condition of the liver and kidneys and restores them to normal condition. Dreco is sold at Allen drug stores at $1.00 a bottle.

WILL BE GIVEN MEDALS

Recipients 125 Southern Railway Employees Who Have Exceeded 25 Years' Service

One hundred and twenty-five men on the Washington division of the Southern Railway, who have exceeded twenty-five years of continuous service with that railway, will be presented with medals by Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern Railway Company, in Alexandria tomorrow morning. Among this number are all ranks and classes of men from general officer to blacksmith helper and they form a part of a vast army of 1,758 men who have served the railway company for more than that length of time. The presentation will take place at 11 o'clock in Odd Fellows Hall on North Columbus street.

In announcing the plan the following statement was issued by President Harrison. "The Southern Railway Company has in its service 1758 men of all ranks and all classes from general officers to blacksmith helper who have exceeded twenty five years of continuous service on the road. There are indeed thirty four men who have exceeded fifty years of such service and it is also of interest that there are 235 negroes on the list. These men are the best men the company carries on its rolls for they have proven their loyalty and their fitness for their several responsibilities in the hard school of experience and by survival of the strict discipline which is necessary in the administration of a railroad. To recognize their achievements and to commemorate their honorable record the company has arranged to award to each one of them a medal which they can wear so long as they live and hand down as an heirloom in their families."

"The medal is of bronze, of highly artistic and attractive design. It is the work of the distinguished sculpter, Victor Brenner of New York, who was recommended to the company by the United States Director of the Mint. The artist is best known perhaps for his design of the current Lincoln penny. The obverse of the medals bears the inscription "Southern Railway Company for loyalty," and shows an actual scene on the road, a section of modern double track equipped with automatic signals, with an all steel passenger train running through the mountains of North Georgia. President Harrison's plan was to show a typical industrial scene with a factory in the background but the sculpter would not agree that a factory was capable of artistic treatment and insisted on mountains. It is, however, fortunate for the company and for those who will wear the medals. The reverse of the medal shows three symbols of modern railroading, a telephone dispatcher at his switch board, a section gang engaged in maintenance and a large heavy power press to represent the shop craft. Thus each principal branch of the service is indicated. On the reverse also is engraved the name of the man to whom the medal is awarded with the date of his service record.."

AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

An excellent show was given last night by Guy Bartlett's Manhattan Minstrels and too much cannot be said of the class of this attraction.

Mr. Bartlett had a wide variety in the big two-hour show he presented last night and the large audience enjoyed the melodious voices and comedy antics.

Bartlett is a comedian along original lines, offering new material in song and story that is successful in helping the laughs frequent throughout his appearance and he is ably assisted by the Manhattan 4, in the popular melodies of the day. George Harmon, the snappy little end-man; William Kraemer, the English tenor and yodler and interlocutor; Foley and Evans, the dancing boys; Harry LeVine in acrobatics and all are full of snap and life. The playet at the end was some think too. Made a few of our worthy citizens scratch their heads. Viz "What Makes the Giant Move."

A giant figure is lying dismembered about the stage and on being put together comes to life and takes part in the play, it is shown to be entirely empty before assembling and after taking it apart.

A prize of $5.00 will be given on Thursday to the one guessing nearest to the correct solution. [illegible] life change of program tonight.

CE AFTER DUN.

That the Germans planned to reduce Verdun and then publicly announce their plans for peace was the information contained in a letter received in the last few days by Cardinal Gibbons in Baltimore, from an authoritative source in one of the continental countries now at war.

The prelate in an interview said he had heard that conditions in Germany were depressing the people somewhat and the Government felt that after it had pressed its Verdun campaign successfully it would be in a position better than ever before to announce to the world on just what terms it would accept peace. That the campaign would be brought to a standstill seemed to be the impression generally among Frenchmen.

In the last few weeks the Cardinal has received hundreds of letters from the war stricken area, and practically all bring news of great suffering among the people who have been driven about by the fleeing and conquering armies. One letter told of conditions in Poland as being almost unbelievable, and among the saddest conditions recorded in the letter were those among babies.

Children are dying off in Poland rapidly, the information to the Cardinal stated, and this will mean that the next generation of Poles will be greatly depleted. In sanitary conditions, lack of sustaining foods, the great excitement attendant upon the flight of families from one village to another, a severe winter, with little or no shelter and warmth have all been contributing factors in nipping the young lives.

Peace may come after Verdun, but will Germany be in a condition to dictate the terms? There are at present some ominous signs in the sky.

The committee on foreign affairs of the German Federal States is to meet today under the presidency of the Bavarian premier. Neither the Chancellor nor Prussia is represented on this committee, which meets occasionally as a sort of control board of foreign affairs of Germany. George Bernhard says in the Vossische Zeitung of Berlin that the decision to hold a meeting of this committee is regarded as a sign that the German states are dissatisfied with the present condition of affairs in respect to the war. He hints that the committee desires a conference with the Chancellor on pending questions, including disputes with the United States.

Herr Bernhard declares that nothing is being kept in the dark the position that the government's silence must be broken.

A dispatch from Amsterdam yesterday reported serious rioting in Munich, caused by the killing of so many Bavarians in the mad assaults of the Emperor William at Verdun.

GREAT REVIVAL IN RICHMMOND.

The greatest religious campaign Richmond has ever known entered into its third day yesterday, with still brighter prospects of success than for the two days previous. The campaign, during the two weeks that it is to continue will reach every family in the city, white and colored, not only are the churches holding nightly services, but the workers are going into school and factory, hospitals, workshops, and all other institutions where men and women are gathered in any number.

The entire city has been blocked off into sections, determined alone by the geographical lines, and with all denominational lines and creeds swept aside. Ministers of all Protestant denominations have joined hands, and the work is taking a mighty impetus almost at the very start of the campaign.

It was estimated that in the ninety-odd Protestant Churches there were gathered fully 20,000 people last night. This does not take into consideration the large numbers reached in the factories, fire stations and the various institutions of the city, where large numbers heard the word during the lunch hour.

Richmond pastors are conducting the services in their own churches for the most part. There are, however, a number of visiting clergymen who are assisting in the work, and others are expected to visit the city during the progress of the campaign.

COL. JOHN MOSBY

(Norfolk Ledger-Dispatch)

His eye flashing, his voice full and strong and his jaws snapping in emphasis as he talked Colonel John S. Mosby, veteran cavalry leader of the Confederate Army and now 82 years old, yesterday deplored the delay in sending troops across the Mexican border after Villa and expressed disappointment at the administration's action in extending to Carranza the right to send Mexican troops into United States territory. There was little choice between Carranza and Villa, he said, both being merely Mexicans and both incapable of undertaking the leadership to which they aspired.

Colonel Mosby arrived in Norfolk Monday from Washington, where he has made his home in recent years. He went to St. Vincent's Hospital and will remain there under treatment and "for a change in climate" possibly several weeks.

Colonel Mosby is at work upon his next book, his "Memoirs of the War in Virginia," and he expects to complete it within the next few months.

The veteran cavalry officer was particularly interested to learn the latest news from Mexico.

"Have the troops crossed the border yet?" was the first question and when told it at the situation had not changed except for increased activities in dispatching troops and supplies to General Funston, he shook his head lapsed into silence for fully a minute.

"I am sorry Colonel Slocum's lead was not followed up by the cavalry available on the border when he forced Villa's band to a standstill. If that had been done I believe that Villa would now be a prisoner. Every day lessons the chances of getting him, although I do not believe a considerable number of men is necessary to accomplish that. Could I have my old battalion with me we would go into that country and bring that cutthroat out or drive him into the Pacific Ocean.

"I regret that the President has seen fit to deal with Carranza, who is no better than Villa. I was heartily in favor of the President's action in landing troops at Vera Cruz. I think it was a mistake in withdrawing them and before the order to evacuate I had hoped that the troops would be sent into Mexico City. Had that been done we would not have so much difficulty now in dealing with a situation that was inevitable.

"I know the country between Texas and Mexico City, having traversed it many times when I was located in San Francisco as attorney for the Southern Pacific Railroad. I don't see the necessity for a great force to effect the capture of Villa. Those Mexicans will not stand up and fight and if they don't let him get too much of a headway our cavalry should overtake him in short order.

"The only way to handle Mexico is to take it over. My views always have inclined to a quick occupation of the whole republic. I thought we should have invited both England and France to send small armies to the country and in conjunction with our forces the republic should have been extinguished, one-third of it going to each of the three nations, not because of desire for conquest but to eliminate all of this petty squabbling and to place the country under jurisdiction that would forever put a stop to activities of such men as Huerta, Carranza and Villa. I knew Diaz well. He was the only man of the day who was qualified to rule down there."

Fillipinos who represent $25,000,000 of investments in the Islands have addressed a petition to Congress asking that ultimate independence of the Philippine Islands should be withheld for a period of 20 years and should not become effective in four years, as was provided by the Philippines bill.

Pier No. 2, at the steamship terminals at Halifax, N. S., was destroyed by fire early yesterday with $150,000 loss. The American immigration offices were on the pier. The upper floors of the buildings on the pier were filled with Red Cross supplies for the British army and all were burned.

The army estimates bill, providing for a British army of 4,000,000 men, were introduced to the British House of Commons yesterday by Under Secretary of State for War M. J. Tennant. The estimated cost of the munitions for the proposed army (including that necessary for the navy) is placed at $15,000,000 daily by the war office.

Benjamin F. Shively, Democrat, United States Senator from Indiana and second in rank on the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate, died yesterday at Providence Hospital, Washington, after a long illness, from kidney disease. The dead Senator was 59 years old. He was born and reared in northern Indiana.

The Berlin report states that Lieut. Boelke, the noted flyer, shot down two French machines on the eastern front of Verdun, while two British aeroplanes also were forced to the ground. Above the Verdun cauldron aviators of both armies fought death duels hour after hour yesterday. Three German machines were shot down by French fliers north of Verdun, while in the Cernay region another was sent hurtling to the ground.

The deaths of three prominent German generals have just been reported in Berlin. The Bavarian army has lost Lieut. Gen. Eduard von Graf, who retired in 1909, but returned to duty at the outbreak of the war. Wurttemberg has lost Maj. Gen. Wilhelm von Lotterer and Lieut. Gen. von Menges, commanding an infantry division. The latter died of heart disease in the trenches. Gen. von Lotterer is said to have been killed in action at Verdun while in command of an artillery division.

Open accusations and veiled insinuations were directed at the Norfolk city officials with especial reference to the police by Rev. B. Lacy Hoge, pastor of Spurgeon Memorial Baptist Church, in his address before the audience of men at Sunday afternoon. As a climax to his address, the preacher read an anonymous note stating that a prize fight was to be staged Sunday afternoon, and that there would be no interference from the police.

John Melvin, aged 24, jitney driver, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., was shot to death yesterday by three passengers who became angered, because Melvin would not take them to where they wanted to go. One of the passenger slapped his face and pulled a revolver and fired. The others opened fire too and Melvin was almost instantly killed. Three Italians have been arrested for the murder and two of the mhave been identified by John Reddington another passenger as the men who did the shooting.

Fear of German U-boats caused the British admiralty to double the patrol of crusiers and destroyers in the Irish Sea and close the port of Liverpool for two days. The American liner St. Paul, which sailed from Liverpool on Saturday night a week ago and arrived in New York yesterday, was overhauled by a cruiser just as she had left the mouth of the Mersey and was proceeding toward the Irish coast. The cruiser suggested the safest procedure would be for her to return to the Mersey and remain there until word was received that no submarines were around. This delayed the St. Paul 15 hours, as it was well toward noon on Sunday before she started for New York, a second time. The White Star liner Baltic was held up by the same precautions.

Construction of a permanent dynamite plant for commercial purposes by the Du Pont Company on the York River, near Williamsburg, is practically a certainty. At least that is the opinion of Chesapeake and Ohio Railway officials, who have been negotiating with the company relative to the building of a spur line from Williamsburg to the site of the plant, a distance of about five miles. From reliable authority it is learned that the plant will be built with a view of employing from 250 to 400 men and that no enlargement of the plant later is contemplated. While business from such an enterprise would fully justify the construction of a branch railway line from Williamsburg, those who seem to know whereof they speak say that it would come far short of justifying the tremendous boom in real estate in the Williamsburg country which has taken place in recent weeks. The plant, if built, will be located about fifteen miles down the York river from West Point.

Fish are beginning to run in the Rappahannock, and are coming to Fredericksburg in much larger quantities. In addition to the higher-priced kinds of fish, many herring are brought to market. They sell readily for 50 and 60 cents a dozen.

Herbert Rakes, of Franklin county alleged moonshiner, was brought to Roanoke, Monday night, suffering from a gunshot wound inflicted by Deputy United States Marshal Benjamin Gardner, and now lies at the point of death at a hospital.

Deputy Collector O. T. Wood, of the internal revenue department, early Sunday morning raided and destroyed a large illicit still in Pittsylvania county several miles west of Sycamore. The plant was under fire with six 50-gallon fermenters at work. The 300 gallons of beer were spilled and the 110-gallon still and other equipment making up a complete outfit were destroyed. No arrests were made, as the operators had escaped before the revenue men arrived.

Lyman Turner shot and probably fatally wounded Dave Brockman, Sunday, near Barboursville, Orange county. The young men, who had been friends, were drinking and quarreled over a girl to whom both had been paying attention. Turner claims that he shot in selfdefense when Brockman attacked him with a knife. Brockman is in a Charlottesville hospital with a bullet wound in the abdomen. Turner gave himself up and is in the Orange county jail.
